

Moving Ahead: The Need for A Career and College-Ready Diploma

Ready for Life, Careers, and Education

By the Numbers

84 Percent of Democrats, Republicans, and Independents ages 18+ support career and college-ready requirements

80 Percent of future jobs will require some education beyond high school

45 States do a better job preparing students for college than Washington

45 States require more English classes than Washington

39 States require more social studies classes than Washington

36 States require more science classes than Washington

42 States have better college participation from low-income families than Washington

54 Percent of Washington high school graduates requiring remediation who enter community and technical colleges directly from high school

17 Million dollars of Washington State investment spent on college remediation annually

41 Percent of 2008 Black high school graduates enrolled in four-year college-ready coursework while in high school

29 Percent of 2008 Hispanic high school graduates enrolled in four-year college-ready coursework while in high school

All sources available on our website

The Washington State Board of Education Proposed High School Graduation Requirements

Course	Class of 2013 Requirements	Proposed Requirements
English	3	4
Math	3	3
Science	2 (1 Lab)	3 (2 Labs)
Social Studies	2.5	3
Arts	1	2*
Health and Fitness	2	2*
World Language	0	2*
Occupational Education	1	1
Career Concentration	0	2*
Electives	5.5	2
Total	20	24

*Based on the high school and beyond plan, the following substitutions may be made: Arts—1 credit; World Languages—2 credits; Health/Fitness—1.5 credits of physical education (per law); Career Concentration—2 credits. Note: Up to 2 credits could be waived by local administrators for students who have failed a class and taken the appropriate credit recovery classes to regain the credit.

The numbers (left) provide a telling story: we are not doing enough to prepare our high school graduates for the demands of work, education, and citizenship. The Washington State Board of Education's new high school graduation requirements proposal will ensure our graduates leave high school ready for life, ready for careers, and ready for education.

What are the elements of success for our high school graduates?

Ready for Life: High school graduates who are responsible and engaged citizens in our society and our democracy, fully capable of making critical decisions and positive contributions to our community

Ready for Careers: High school graduates who have the skills and knowledge necessary to pursue any number of career pathways suitable to their own goals

Ready for Education: High school graduates who are prepared to enter two or four-year degree programs and apprenticeship and trade programs without the need for remediation

The Building Blocks of Success LR CR ER

All Washington high school students will be automatically enrolled in coursework that gets them Ready for Life, Ready for Careers, and Ready for Education